The person of Barack Obama as the president of the most powerful nation on Earth, attended an Easter Service at a church and yet was not sitting at the altar or in the high places. Well, we might have 1000 reasons to judge him but I see simple humility in leadership. Church is own by God and not by the Politicians or celebrities or anyone. He was not given time to take over the pulpit and yet he was okay with that.

Many people feel let down and disrespected when they are not highly recognize in the body of Christ. They try to manipulate their way into church leadership position that was not divinely approved by God. No wonder, such people do not have great impact in their congregation or ministries. Are you a position seeker in the church? You are always looking for recognition all the time and if you dont get it, you get angry and upset. Then you are not a true minister of Christ. Repent and give yourself to Christ and become like Christ who's life is full of humility and servant-hood. We are called to serve and not to seek for position by all means.Source: Internet
